

Chicagoans Support Artist Jesse Palter Live

March 18th, 2010

0
tweets
tweet

Thank you all for sending me great chicago talent to feature & support, keep em coming! The latest of talents was intro'ed to me by several people that follow me on twitter, a friend that works for Oprah, and from a handful of raving comments made on my facebook fan page, and so I'm sharing it all w/you now, meet jesse palter!

Jesse Palter is a young up & coming songstress gaining a huge following and making a big time name for herself in the music scene as we speak. As Jim DeRogatis, a Sun Times Music Critic, put it as.. "...Lady Gaga, watch out!"

Her bluesy, jazz vocals infused with an ever-so-catchy pop tone is impressing audiences from coast to coast. I love that she has the all natural combination of an amazing voice, she writes her own music and that she has organically built a loyal following that has aggressively sought out more exposure for her through every medium, which for example, has lead to my support here and now!

Check this new super cool sensation out at one of my fav lil jazz joint hangouts called "Pops for champagne" on State St this saturday (3/20) at 9pm. There's a $15 cover- but well worth it to say you saw her live in chicago 1st, when she is walking up for that grammy one day soon.. Enjoy!

share this:

(Visited 38 times, 1 visits today) Filed under Art, General, Music, chicago, nightlife, restaurants | Comment \(0\)

Comments RSS